

The 2022 KIF-KAEA-KAFA Conference

June 10 (June 9, US Time Zone), 2022

Call for Papers

The annual conference jointly sponsored by the Korea-America Economic Association (KAEA), Korea Institute of Finance (KIF), and Korea-America Finance Association (KAFA) will be held ONLINE on June 10, 2022 (evening of June 9, Thursday, US Time Zone) due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

The KAEA is soliciting high quality research papers on public finance, monetary policy, macro-finance, financial/capital markets, banking, and financial regulation. KIF will provide THREE presenters an honorarium of up to KRW 1 million for virtual presentation. Accepted manuscripts will be published as KIF working papers. Authors are permitted to publish the manuscript later at a journal.

The deadline to submit a manuscript is Friday, April 22. Submissions should be emailed to KAEA VP J.B. Kim (jb.kim@okstate.edu). We strongly welcome submissions from junior scholars. All submitted papers will be reviewed by anonymous referees. Acceptance decisions will be made by April 30, and only the authors of accepted papers will be notified by email.

You must be a KAEA lifetime member or have been an annual member for the last two years (2021 and 2022) to submit a manuscript. Your membership status will be verified before your submission is reviewed. No exception will be made regarding this membership policy. Please visit our website (www.kaea.org) if you want to become a member.
